

Dear Principals,

The School Board of Broward County and the Broward Association of School Psychologists (BASP) recognize the week of November 14th – 18th as School Psychology Week. One purpose of this week is to promote the field of school psychology within the county's schools and communities. A detailed display board about the field and what school psychologists do for the county will be on exhibit at KC Wright.

Another focus of this week is to create awareness and knowledge about the breadth of the services that school psychologists provide to the county on a daily basis. From being members of the Collaborative Problem Solving Team to conducting comprehensive psychoeducational evaluations, school psychologists are kept busy. Many BASP members also find the time to volunteer for events at their schools and for their communities.

We hope that you have been able to become familiar with the school psychologist assigned to your school. During School Psychology Week, we encourage you to acknowledge the school psychologist's commitment to the students and staff at your school.

If you would like more information regarding the field of school psychology, please feel free to approach your school psychologist or the Broward Association of School Psychology (www.baspfl.org) website.

Happy School Psychology Week!
